FRENCH ENVOY ISSUES DENIAL OF CHARGES

Head of Delegation Says No Secret Understanding

ANOTHER CLAIM MADE

State Department Said to Have Documents Showing Arrangement Regarding Siberia.

Charges made by the Far Eastern Republic representatives of an agreement between France and Japan as to Eastern Siberia and also as to their stand at the Washington gathering, interrupted the holiday lull in Arms Conference proceedings.

M. Albert Sarraut, head of the French delegation, sent an emphatic formal denial of the charges to Secretary Hughes.

At the same time information was given of the existence of a report from an American source, and now in the State Department, charging an agreement between French and Japanese military officers in the field, regarding matters in Siberia.

Added to these developments was a statement made, according to an Associated Press dispatch, by Boris E. Skvirsky, a member of the Chita delegation. In it he said that additional documents on the subject of a protectorate over Siberia were in the files of his Government, and that permission would be given for the inspection of these papers and the originals of those made public last night by a duly accredited representative of the American Government. He suggested the American Consul-General to Kobe, Japan Jackson . Caldwell, temporarily stationed at Chita, as the man to do so.

Subcommittees were at work yesterday on naval details, and it is thought that the French may be ready to announce their attitude on the Root submarine rules today or tomorrow.

Washington Jan. 3.—The excitement caused by the Chita delegation's exposure of alleged correspondence, and secret treaty engagements between France and Japan, bearing on the Siberian situation and aimed more or less at the United States, was increased last night if anything when M. Albert Sarraut, head of the French delegation, sent to Secretary Hughes an angry note of absolute denial.

This action of the French caused some surprise. Many had supposed that the French would content themselves with denial through the newspapers, such as was made last night, and would thereafter assume an attitude of contemptuous dismissal of the whole matter. When the opposite course was taken last night, it had the effect in some quarters of giving an additional importance to the Chita delegation's disclosures.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Isaac Gregg.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Under the seniority rule, the chairmanship of the powerful Finance Committee of the Senate will fall upon the shoulders of Porter J. McCumber, of North Dakota, through the death of Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, In that capacity, Senator McCumber will have charge of all tariff and tax legislation in the Senate, including the pending Fordney Tariff Bill. It will be the first time in many years that committee has been headed by a man representing strictly the Middle West, agricultural constituency.

Senator McCumber has been associated with the so-called agricultural "bloc" which has sought to aid he farmers by special legislation. But he has prided himself on his party regularity. Republican leaders today expressed no apprehension over his leadership of the Finance Committee.

President and Mrs. Harding revived a time-honored custom yesterday by holding a New Year's Day reception at the White House. The most elaborate arrangements were completed for the event which was the first one in eight years, the old custom having been abandoned by Woodrow Wilson while he occupied the Executive Mansion.

The reception, which was open to the general public, began at 11 o'clock in the morning and continued until 4 in the afternoon, with an hour for luncheon beginning at 1 o'clock. The first period was devoted to members of the Diplomatic Corps, members of the Cabinet, members of Congress and others identified with governmental affairs. The general public was received from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Mr. Albert Kammerer who is in charge of the Far Eastern Section of the French Foreign Office denounces as forgeries the sensational documens brought to Washington by the Far Eastern Republic in which France is shown to have made an agreement with Japan for mutual support at the Arms Conference. The most startling feature of this alleged correspondence between the French and Japanese governments is a promise by France to uphold Japanese claims in Siberia.

In talking about the alleged documents, M. Kammerer says:

"The fact that the delegates from the Far Eastern Republic have come here with such documents shows how little attention need be paid to the delegates in question. The documents are forgeries and stupid. France has no agreement of any kind about Siberia, not even with Japan."

In spite of the apparent deadlock which has suspended the Shantung negotiations for more than ten days, there is still hope that the question will be settled before the adjournment of the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments and Pacific and Far Eastern questions. That hope lies in the new political situation in China more than anything else. Premier Liang, the head of the Cabinet in China is an experienced financier and an able statesman. Various cogent reasons support the belief that Premier Liang wil favor the settlement of the Shantung railway question on reasonable terms of compromise, such as a twenty year loan from Japan and the appointment of Japanese as chief engineer, traffic manager and auditor. Such is the Japanese view of the situation, but Chinese representatives in Washington think otherwise.

According to official reports of the Agricultural and Commerce Departments farmers of the United States sold abroad nearly $2,000,000,000 worth of their products in the year 1921.

Despite world-wide economic depression, it was a good year for the nation's agricultural population so far as export business goes. Farm products constituted more than one-third of the entire total of exports of all commodities. Farmers, therefore, received the largest slice of the world's biggest export business.

Prosperity for the nation's agricultural population means prosperity for the entire country, according to government officials. It was on this theory that President Harding instructed Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to call a conference of agricultural interests to devise means of affording relief.

The State Sunday School Convention to be held in Charlottesville on February 21 and 22 is one of a series of conventions for all denominations that have been held in all parts of the world for many years.

The first State Convention in Virginia was held in 1875, but at first they were not held every year and the one in February will be the 23rd. The eighth World's Convention was held in Tokyo in 1920 and the International Convention is due to meet in Kansas City next June.

It is announced that 270 county and district conventions were held in 1921 under auspices of the Virginia Sunday Sunday School Association; that the attendance was probably 27,000 and that nearly half the total number of schools in the State were represented; that there are about 5,000 white Sunday Schools in the State numbering not far from a half million members.

BOY KILLED IN BELFAST RIOT

Irreconcilables Fighting Hard—Treaty Expected To Pass

Belfast, Jan. 3.—There was a revival of the rioting in Belfast last night until 6 o'clock this morning. Two were killed and several were critically wounded. The victims were members of both factions.

A boy named Carr was killed by a bullet fired by one of the rioters while another bullet struck a child being carried by its mother. The child's life is despaired of. Several men entered a butcher shop owned by Catholics and shot two brothers, dangerously wounding both,

Extra police and military are on duty while ambulances are rushing the wounded to hospitals, Sniping continues in the York street area.

Two bombs were throw during the week end. One shattering a house in Harding street. The other was hurled into a street car, but it failed to explode.

Dublin, Jan. 3.—The first issue of the Republic of Ireland, a new newspaper devoted to the interests of "die-hard" Irish republicans, will appear today, it is understood.

Declaring for unqualified Irish independence and providing for the nation's association with Great Britain only as an equal, the Republic of Ireland will denounce the present treaty as impossible and dishonorable, declaring that its opponents will never take the oath of allegiance to the empire and King.

According to this organ, it is indicated definitely that organized opposition to the dominion status will continue, and that attempts to compromise will be futile.

Meanwhile, members of the Dail Eireann have returned to Dublin, after the holidays spent among their constituents, and after a debate of there or four days, are expected to ratify the agreement by a majority now estimated at between twelve and twenty.

It is indicated that Eamonn de Valera will announce the withdrawal of his proposed alternative pact, tacitly conceding his defeat. It is difficult to see, if De Valera finally takes the oath and participates in the new parliament, how he can maintain his leadership of the opposition on a Republican program, since the Republican irreconcilables have announced flatly that they would repudiate him as they repudiated Collins and Griffith, unless he holds out for complete independence.

Whether or not the new parliament finds De Valera in its ranks, it will certainly face outside opposition from a group of extremists such as Mary MacSwiney and others who have announced, like Count Plunkett, that they would "never violate their personal honor by taking the oath."

For the first time since De Valera sprang his sensation by repudiating the treaty, Dublin, as a whole, is calm and confident of acceptance of the pact.

RECEPTION AT WHITE HOUSE FIRST IN YEARS

President and Mrs. Harding Hosts to Official Washington and the Public

HUGE CROWD ATTENDS

President Resumes Functions Abandoned by Wilson Nine Years Ago—Grasp Hands of Thousands

Washington, Jan. 3.—President and Mrs. Harding threw the White House doors open to the public yesterday for the first New Year's reception held there for nine years. The number responding to the general invitation officially was estimated at 6,500, many of whom stood for hours in a biting wind and in a slowly moving column of fours which extended for blocks from the Pennsylvania avenue porticoes.

The President and Mrs. Harding met and shook hands with all, a physical feat of no mean magnitude, and one from which they showed more than a few signs of strain at 4 o'clock, when the last person in the line had passed.

The official section was received from 11 until 1 o'clock, and there were approximately 2,000 participating in it, headed by the Cabinet, the diplomatic corps, members of Congress, Army and Navy officers, and the higher officials of the Government establishments. The brilliant uniforms and gala dress kept the big state rooms of the White House full of color, while the curving driveways were jammed with automobiles. The numbers were swelled by the delegates and attendants upon the Arms Conference all resplendent in orders and decorations.

The gates of the White House inclosure were swung back to the public at 2 o'clock and the long column swept forward to the pillared entrance. For two hours the moving mass passed through its individual audience, jigging under the combined stimulus of the music and the cold.

Secret service men ushers and gold-corded military aides cut the quadruple line down to single file, once it was within the entrance Uniformed police combed the column outside for cameras, relentlessly relieving their bearers.

The Presidential party stood in the oval Blue Room just out of hearing of the orchestra and the visitors passed at the rate of 30 to 40 a minute. The crowd was thoroughly cosmopolitan, representative of many races and nationalities The children, of whom there were many, were given special attention.

"Hello, dearie,' the President said to one tot who was passing on a paternal shoulder.

"Why, look who's here," the President exclaimed as he bent over and smiled into the ashing teeth and rolling eyeballs that were sweeping by. "How are you youngsters?"

Mrs. Harding smiled and added a pleasant word here and there while she quickly developed an efficient swing of her right arm and shoulder, which stood the strain as well as the President's gold-developed muscles.

Only occasionally did the President discover a personal acquaintance in the throng, one being Urbain Ledoux, whose activities in connection with un employment and other activities have been frequently noted. To him the President gave a cheery greeting.

The White House reception was not the only one held in Washington yesterday. While the President received the public the Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge were at home to several hundred guests while Cabinet officials were at home to their official associates and friends. Secretary and Mrs. Hughes gave a breakfast to the diplomatic corps at the Pan-American Union Building at 12.30 P. M. while Secretaries Weeks Denby, Wallace and Hoover received at their homes.

PREDICT SPROUL FOR U. S. SENATE

Pennsylvania Governor Urged to Resign To Succeed Penrose

Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania will accept the seat in the United States Senate made vacant by the death of Senator Penrose or officials and politicians in close touch with the political situation here and in Pennsylvania have been grossly misled in analyzing the party problems in that State.

Bereft of a leader that has held that position for a period of twenty-five years, the Republican party of Pennsylvania faces the necessity of finding a man big enough to fill his place.

Following closely the loss of Senator Philander C. Knox the death of Senator Penrose is felt as a terrible blow to the Republican party, particularly at this time when the country is in a state of transition the course of which is being directed by the majority party. The success of Republicanism, according to those most vitally interested, depends largely if not entirely, upon legislative measures that must be efficiently disposed of at no distant date. The loss of an experienced leader at a time when the burden of responsibility rests so heavily upon the Republican party cannot, according to those in a position to know, be calculated at this time.

Aspires to Senate Seat.

Responsible authorities on the Pennsylvania situation declare that Gov. Sproul expected to fill the vacant seat ad interim and be a candidate at the November elections to complete the unexpired term.

This he can do by resigning the governorship, which would be filled automatically by Lieut. Gov. Edward E. Beidleman. Beidleman then could appoint Sproul as Senator.

It is known that Gov. Sproul has cherished an ambition to represent Pennsylvania in the Senate and that many of his friends are appealing to him to resign and accept the appointment.

Influential Republicans in Pennsylvania and in Washington are reported to have been in touch with the governor regarding the necessity of appointing without delay a successor to Senator Penrose because of the importance of Pennsylvania being represented in the Senate when the "four-power pact" and the tariff measure come up for a vote.

Senator Crow Ill.

The illness of Senator William E. Crow, who was appointed ad interim to the seat of Senator Philander C. Knox who died on October 12, may prevent his appearance in Washington while these important matters are up for consideration and this adds materially to the importance of appointing some one to fill the seat of Senator Penrose.

Although many Pennsylvanians accept the prediction that the present governor will come to Washington at this time, they will not agree that Sproul will have easy sledding in an election to the Senate. Many in close touch with the late Senator believe that his faction would oppose Sproul in order to preserve the Penrose organization and seek to elect one of its leaders.

Regardless of the views of apposing politicians, it is agreed that, owing to the emergency, little time will elapse before an apointment is made.

Gov. Sproul has refused to discuss the appointment as a mark of respect to the dead Senator and has indicated that a more propitious time to make a statement would be after the funer[illegible]

Big Interest In Trial of Danville Liquor Case

Taxi Driver Charged With Delivering Whisky to Resident of City

Danville, Va., Jan. 3.—The degree of unusual public interest in the trial of C. A. Frazier, a local transfer car driver, charged with delivering a gallon and a half of liquor at the home of Walter Lee, was made apparent yesterday, when Mayor Wooding was compelled to adjourn his court and move to the Corporation Court in order to accommodate the crowd. Fully 300 people crowded the courtroom, among them eleven prominent women of the community, representatives of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Law and Order League.

The hearing was not gone into, but it was set for tomorrow, not, however, without some sharp verbal tilting between John Thomas Watson, an attorney retained by the Law and Order League to prosecute Frazier, and Hugh T. Williams, retained to defend Frazier. Williams insisted on a continuance until a date suitable for him, declaring that the setting of the case had broken a gentleman's agreement. Watson insisted on trial yesterday and was vigorously applauded by many of the people present. Mr. Williams then told the court that he expected that the case would be tried in "orderly fashion and not by a mob." The mayor set the case for Monday, serving notice on the attorneys that he would make disposition of it that day regardless and would countenance no further delay.

Frazier appeared and was rebonded in the sum of $250 for his appearance

SCHOOLS REOPEN

After being closed for the Christmas holidays since December 23 both public and private schools of the city today reopened for studies. The attendance at all of the schools was large.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

In the beginning of the New Year no matter what other resolutions you may have formed, there can be no better resolve than to own one's own home. We know of one man in Alexandria who, forty years ago, at the age of seventeen, made this far-seeing resolution and who at the age of twenty-four conducted his bride over the threshold of their own little home and who has grown to be one of the successful merchants of the city. This young man was a printer by trade, with only the small wages paid the craft at that time. But he happened to be gifted with an unusual amount of grit and perseverance and the result has been that the thousands of dollars usually paid out in rent have gone into his own pocket and been so much additional capital, besides a present and actual insurance to his family. Moreover, this thrifty citizen has brought up a family of boys in whom he has inculcated the same principles of economy and savings.

In the early days the only way to accumulate money was by dint of self-denial and hard work. Nowadays, however, we have Building and Loan Associations that make the task easier and safer and surer. If our young men only stopped to think, to reflect on these friendly and philanthropic institutions, and what they would do for them, we feel sure that one thousand more young men in Alexandria would become shareholders and in a few years acquire that which would, in a measure at least, render them proof against the frowns of fortune. The American is essentially a home-lover and has an inherited love for the possession of land. No matter how humble the home, it is still his own, and he would not swap it for the miles of rented palaces that jostle and crowd each other on the thoroughfares of the great cities. We doubt not there is more real happiness under one of these little roofs than in all the others combined.

If you who are young read this, take heed and profit by the suggestion. If you happen to be older, and have a family, teach it and preach it to them till they start the building of a cosy nest somewhere that will shelter their little ones sometime and make for happiness. You know they will never regret it; teach them out of your wisdom that they will never regret it. The way is easy once it is pointed out to them. Your duty and their happiness lie in the same path.

XMAS SAVINGS CLUB

We understand that the Retail Merchants Bureau is to consider the formation of a Christmas Savings Club at its next meeting. This is a custom or an institution, either, that has grown wonderfully within the past few years. In fact it has spread like wildfire all over the country. It has made the purchase of Christmas gifts a matter of pleasure instead of anxiety, and multiplied their number many fold. We know of no matter to be taken up by this admirable bureau, that is of more importance not only to our merchants but to every class of our citizens as well. Read the report of that meeting and you will probably see the importance of one or more Christmas Savings Clubs in Alexandria.

SCHOOL INSPECTION

Periodical physical examinations are as necessary for children as for adults, in order to detect physical defects. So important is this considered that routine examnstions of all children have become an integral part of the work of many public schools, and mothers and teachers cannot begin too early the stressing of hygienic habits, since nearly all of the diseases of adult life are traceable to conditions in childhood.

Diseased tonsils, adenoids and decayed teeth are among the most usual causes of deficient vitality in children, but perhaps the most prevalent of all is malnutrition, since of the 16,000,000 school children in the United States known to be suffering from some preventable defect the large majority are undernourished. Malnutrition is just as apt to occur among the children of the well to do as among those of the poor, as it is caused just as often by an unsuitable or poorly balanced diet as by too little food.

Medical inspection of schools is conducted by a physician, preferably assisted by a public health or a school nurse who also visits in the homes of the children found defective to see that the doctor's instructions are carried out. Where there is no physician available, the nurse herself may give a physical inspection but this is necessarily not as thorough as the medical inspection although it is the means of discovering innumerable defects. When there are diseased tonsils or adenoids, the parents are generally advised to have them removed; children with defective teeth are advised to see a dentist, and often tooth brush drills are instituted in the schools to impress the importance of clean teeth. Where children are as much as 7 per cent under the normal wight for their height, their parents are advised concerning diet, and then the children are weighed each week thereafter to see if they gain normally, for if a child does not gain at least eight ounces a month there is almost invariably something wrong with his health.

In many schools hot lunches are served at noon in the effort to help bring the children up to normal wt. and in others a half pint of milk is served to each child at ten o'clock in the morning, since milk is is the one most nearly perfect food. Medical inspecitons are valuable, not only from a physical standpoint but from an educational one as well. Children suffering from malnutrition or physical defects are generally nervous and irritable and backward in their studies. Often they drop out of school entirely and are considered stupid when they are really sick. Schools that do not have medical or physical inspection would do well to consider its advisability, and parents whose children are backward, nervous or underweight should lose no time in having them examined for physical defects that undermine their health.

ASKS ST. JOHN FOR STATEMENT

Senator Also Receives Telegram From Charles W. Fox, of Richmond

Washington, Dec. 31. — Senator Watson, of Georgia, who presented charges to the senate that soldiers were executed overseas, today wired William E. St., John, of Lynchburg, former member of Company L. 116th Infantry, for a statement as to the charge that he witnessed the shooting of a messenger by Major Opie in the Argonne, in 1918. Senator Watson also received a telegram yesterday from Charles W. Fox, 1528 Floyd avenue, Richmond, in which he stated that he saw Major Opie kill one or more of his own men. Fox said that he was standing within a few paces of where Major Opie was in the Argonne forest, north of Verdun, when he saw a private, one of the Liaison men, approach Major Opie and deliver a message. "This man was in the drive which started October 8 or 9th." The private turned to leave and Major drew his automatic from his holster and shot the man in the back. The man fell dead. The other men standing near me saw the killing. One of them was Charles Kade of New Jersey. He turned and asked me if I saw it. I said I did. "I am absolutely sure of what I am saying and am willing to make it a part of the record."

Richmond, Dec. 31.—The sworn affidavit of S. G. French, of Richmond, who served as a private in Company B, One Hundred and Sixteenth Infantry, Twenty-ninth division during the world war, in which he charges that Major H. L. Opie, of Staunton, shot at a wounded soldier, follows:

I, S. G. French, whose home is at 305 North Twenty-first street, Richmond, Va., desire to make the following statement relative to Colonel H. L. Opie, of Staunton, Va., who during the world war, was a major in the One Hundred and Sixteenth Infantry, Twenty-ninth Division, A. E. F. organization, in which I served as a private in Company B.

On October 9, 1918, while on my way back to the first-aid station, after having been gassed on the battle line, I passed the headquarters of the Third Battalion, One Hundred and Sixteenth Infantry. Major Opie was standing just outside headquarters. He called to a wounded soldier, who was walking a few feet in front of me and ordered him to halt. The man so ordered failed to do so. A moment later Major Opie fired at his back. When we (the wounded man and I) had reached an ambulance he told me he was from New York city and asked me if I saw Major Opie shoot at him. I told him that I did. I do not remember the name of the wounded man, but he was at that time a member of my company.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me, this 30th day of December, 1921.

Mother Ill, Changes Ships in Mid-Ocean

Her love for her mother caused Mrs. Elizabeth Linnard, former wife of Le Roy Linnard, San Francisco hotel man, to give up for a time her marriage to Captain Sidney Eberle, in oHHonolulu, and transfer to a returning liner in mid-ocean. She learned of her mother's illness by radio and caught a passing steamer. Her return brought out the fact that she had gone there to marry Captain Eberle, an army officer, with a record for bravery and who is a nephew of Admiral E. W. Eberle.

Soft Drink Tax Vanishes

"Luxury" and "Nuisance" Levies Repealed, is Bureau's Reminder

No longer does the soda fountain patron need to carry a supply of pennies with which to pay Uncle Sam's taxes, The Bureau of Internal Revenue has sent out New Year greetings recalling that the so-called "luxury" and "nuisance" taxes passed out of existence late Saturday night.

The revenue act of 1921 which recently passed the Congress and was most of the taxes on wearing apparel, all the taxes on sporting goods, chewing gum, articles made from fur, portable electric fans, toilet articles, musical instruments, and thermostatic containers and reduced the taxes on works of art from 10 to 5 per cent. The tax on jewelry is now 5 per cent and is payable by the vendor.

The tax on transportation of freight and passengers is repealed. The tax on shoes, hats, caps, neckwear, shirts, and hose, paid by the purchaser in excess of a specified price, is also repealed.

Taxes imposed under Section 904 which under the revenue act of 1918 also included taxes on wearing apparel, are now confined to a 5 per cent tax on carpets in excess of $4.50 a square yard, rugs in excess of $6 a square yard, trunks in excess of $35 each, valises, suitcases, hat boxes, and fitted toilet cases in excess of $25 each, purses, pocket books, shopping and handbags in excess of $5, portable lighting fixtures in excess of $10 each fans in excess of $1 each.

These taxes are included in the manufacturers' excise taxes and not payable by the purchaser. The manufacturer may reimburse himself by quoting the selling price and tax separately and asking the purchaser to pay both.

While the customers no longer need to pay the soda fountain tax, a tax on beverages and constituent parts thereof is imposed by the new revenue act, on the manufacturers.

According to the new regulations, when the taxes are payable by the manufacturer or vendor, they must be in the hands of the Collector of Internal Revenue on or before the last day of the month following the month in which sale is made.

Two Games Tonight

There will be two games of basket ball at the Armory tonight, the first game starting at 7:15 between the Dare Devil A. C., and the Friends, two fast girl teams of this city.

The second game will start promptly at 8:15 between the A. L. I., undefeated, with 12 victories and the Washington Silent Five. This team is rated as one of the best "mute" teams in this section of the country, and a first class game is expected.

WILL SHE MARRY THE KAISER?

Reports are current in Holland that the Kaiser is preparing to marry again. The reports say his bride is to be Frau von Rochow, a widow, whose husband was a Colonel in the Danzig Hussars. It is said Frau von Rochow first met Wilhelm at military maneuvers. Berlin newspapers picture her as a womanof great wealth and charm. She is now a guest of the ex-Kaiser at Doorn Holland, and it is reported that the wedding date was set for January 18, but that objections of her family to the proposed union might delay it.

THE OLD NEST

There is coming a play to one of our local movie theatres this week, which has had great runs in the big cities, and which the managers think of sufficient importance to play for three days in succession. The picture has a message for all ages and both sexes. Full of the tenderest and most thrilling scenes; with a story that never flags for a moment in interest; with actors that have flashes of genius; with a plot that works out to the satisfaction of every one—it is seldom that the art of the screen is more beautifully illustrated. Dr. Frank Crane says of it: "One of the greatest of all stories because its theme is the greatest of all themes—Life, and Life now, here—yours, mine! All bitter and sweet, and sad and glad, and divine and pitiful! A film story of life!"

The music will be rendered by Washington artists; all accomplished musicians, and the leader of exceptional merit. If we had our say, the entire population of Alexandria would turn out to enjoy one of the pleasantest afternoons or evenings of their lives. Another thing, it comes to Alexandria before Washington has had a chance. So much for the enterprise of the managers! Our advertising columns will tell when and where.

GIRL'S EYESIGHT RETURNS

Sudden Restoration of Vision Occurs At Salvation Army Watch Night Service

Holyoke, Mass., Jan. 3.—Totally blind and making preparations to go to Boston on the morrow to enter a school for the blind, Miss Doris Belanger, 21, had her eyesight restored midnight Sunday just as the Salvation Army was ending its watch night services in its home.

Kneeling in front of the preaching platform, surrounded by a dozen Salvation Army lassies, all praying for her and with more than 80 persons in the hall, Miss Belanger suddenly jumped up and cried: "Praise God, I've got it! I can see again!"

Adjutant Bloethe jumped to Miss Belanger's side as she started to reel, apparently overcome with joy at the recovery of her sight.

"How many fingers can you see?" asked Adjutant Bloethe as he held his hand before the girl's eyes.

"Five," she said, and then a brief test showed that she could really see once more.

Today she is able to read a book and travel about unaccompanied.

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE

Novel Means Taken to Provide For Jobless

All the cities in the United States of more than 20,000 population have now been reached by the President's Conference on Unemployment, and some very interesting reports have been received as to the novel means taken by various communitis to provide work for the jobless. These are collected in the clearing house of information maintained by Colonel Arthur Woods, Chairman of the Committee on Civic and Emergency Measures, and are sent out in bulletin form every ten days to all mayors, as suggestions towards the solution of their own problems.

Chicago has made a house to house canvass under the direction of the 23 battalion fire chiefs, to compel householders to remove form their premises all combustible materials and refuse, as a fire prevention measure. This campaign has created many short time jobs. The Women's City Club has divided the city into 35 districts, each in charge of a woman chairman, who devotes specified hours each day to getting jobs through its membership.

Dallas, Texas, took a church census of its 190,000 population and each householder was asked if some special odd job, painting, carpentry, gardening, or cleaning, could be furnished the unemployed, and a record was kept of the replies and addresses, with the result that a large number of days of work were secured for the most needy.

In Fort Wayne, Ind, advertisements were published in the newspapers, and the unemployed were asked to fill out and send in blanks. These were turned over to the local employment agency, and local industries secured the help they needed.

Kearny, N. J., has an agent out every afternoon, covering the town with several helpers, in automobiles. They visit buildings under construction, look over streets being paved, and call at all industrial plants and railroad shops, offering the co-operation of the local employment bureau, and ascertaining exactly what kind of help is needed.

In New York City, 103 social agencies have co-operated in relief work for the unemployed and have established a central bureau of registration to act as a clearing house. Pittsburgh contractors and employers have been urged to keep 1 or 2 men in each family on the pay-roll, and to hire to a large extent those living in the city who have dependents.

Each ward in Rockford, Ill., has a committee with the 2 aldermen as chairmen. These committees in turn have organized precinct committees with a member in charge of each city block. Personal contact like this has resulted in a very successful campaign to provide jobs and relieve distress.

Schnectady, N. Y., has taken care of its own problem by bond issues for public improvements, and the city officials are enforcing rigidly such ordinances as snow removal, which is done under city supervision and charged on tax bills of all derelict property owners.

Atlanta, Ga., has formed a club of 500 citizens each of whom has pledged the building of dwelling to be rented at a reasonable figure, thus giving employment to many, and also helping the housing situation.

Boston, Mass., has asked all employers to increase the number of their employees by at least one, and as many more as is possible. New London, Conn., runs special entertainments in the theatres with local talent. The unemployed are allowed to sell tickets and retain a good percentag of the proceeds. Civil Service rules are suspended in Cambridge, Mass., so that many persons can rotate in the same jobs.

Houston, Texas, maintains a gang of laborers ranging in number from 200 to 600, paying them $1.25 a day and if they have dependents, supplementing this by charity. Employers are urged to apply to the city for labor, which is supplied from this gang.

Take Action Following Promise of Support in The United States Cable Says

Washington, Jan. 2—India has been proclaimed a republic, according to a cable received here yesterday by Siliendra N. Ghose, director of the American commission to promote self-government in India.

Simultaneously the All-India National Congress has modified the "non-violent" tactics of the national movement, so as to permit "armed defense." The message received reads:

The American message referred to was that published in the American press last Monday. It pledged support to the campaign in India for independence, and was signed by United States Senators Norris and Walsh, former Governor Dunne of Illinois, Supreme Court Justice Minturn, of New Jersey, and 38 other American officials and publicists.

"It is permissible to announce now," states Mr. Ghose, "that in preparation for the declaration of independence, provisional governments have been organized in all the provinces by the Nationalists. A central government has been formed, with M. K. Gandhi at its head."

Mr. Ghose also asserts: "Wholesale resignations of the police have occurred throughout the country, and as the news filters out I am certain that it will be found that all the larger cities are today policed by Nationalist volunteers."

WINTER

Actually the season changes from fall to winter this year, at eight minutes after 4 o'clock, (Eastern time), on the morning of December 22.

In the latitude of New Haven, Conn., the days of December 18 to 24, inclusive, each of nine hours and ten minutes duration, are the shortest days of the year in the United States.

Ordinarily the months of December, January and February are regarded as comprising the winter season. Astronomical tables, however, show the season begins December 21 and ends March 21.

A natural impression has been prevalent that within the Arctic Circle the coldest weather of North America would be experienced. The lowest official record is at Point Barrow, northern tip of Alaska, 54 below zero.

Dr. R. M. Anderson, with the Stefansson expedition, records 46 below as the coldest recorded during the years 1913 to 1918. This is about equal to the low point recorded at Saranac Lake, N. Y., in the Adirondacks.

Stefansson, in a recent magazine article, pointed out that comparison of United States weather bureau reports establishes the fact that snowfall in winter in St. Louis, Mo., or in Richmond, Va., is three or four times as great as on the north coast of Alaska.

More than 100 consecutive days of below zero weather, recorded by the United States weather bureau observatory at Duluth, is the longest period of real winter in the annals of United States weather observation.

BUDGET IS FOREMOST

12 Big Supply Bills Will Be Whipped Into Shape in Near Future

Washington, Jan 2—Foremost on the program of Congress now is the budget of the fiscal year starting next July 1, on which the House Appropriations Committee has been working steadily It will take shape before Congress in the form of 12 big supply bills, starting with the measure for the Treasury Department and ending with naval appropriations, which are to be determined after the Arms Conference ends. Three of the measures virtually have been completed— for the Treasury, the District of Columbia and independent offices, and others are slated to follow in rapid order during the next 60 days.

As Congress will adjourn Tuesday out of respect for Senator Penrose, no business will be transacted until Wednesday, when general debate on the Anti-lynching bill is planned. This will be laid aside for the appropriations, which are to come up Thursday and thereafter. The Senate meanwhile has before it the Foreign Debt Commission bill, the Newberry case and some smaller items, not to mention the advance debate of the four-power treaty and other matters connected with the Arms Conference.

Tariff, shipping, bonus and taxation measures promise to take the lead on the legislative program. Of these, the tariff is before the Senate Finance Committee. Hearings are in progress and much work remains to be done before it can be laid before the Senate for debate.

The merchant marine policy is to be developed from data that has been prepared by the Shipping Board for consideration of the President. He is expected to lay the matter before Congress in a personal message some time this month.

A bonus for ex-service men with a new taxing scheme is looming as a measure for which the rank and file of Congress will make imperative demands. Chairman Fordney, of the House Ways and Means Committee, will make arrangements for hearings in a few days.

The main discussion will come over the source of funds for the bonus with Administration leaders leaning strongly in favor of a sales tax. "Drys" declare there is no chance for a light wine and beer tax to provide the funds.

To Make Dedication

Woman's Party Council To Frame Headquarters Ceremony Jan. 16.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Woman's Party plans for the dedication of the new national headquarters next May will be made at a special conference of the national executive committee and national council of the organization to meet in Washington January 15. The call for the meeting was issued by the party vice president, Miss Alice Paul, today.

Those who will take part in the January meeting include Mrs. Robert Walker, of Baltimore, membership chairman; Mrs. Donald R. Hooker and Mrs. Townsend Scott, of Baltimore; Mrs. Sophie G. Meredith, of Richmond; Mrs. Izetta J. Brown, of Kingwood, W. Va., as well as some thirty others from seventeen different States.

Plans of the May ceremonies will be presented to the national council by Mrs. John G. Battelle, of Columbus Ohio, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Ice cream consumed in the United States has increased approximately 100,000,000 gallons since prohibition went into effect.

HIGHWAY ACTIVITIES

Richmond, Jan. 3.—Interest in highway activities in the State is centering around the annual meeting of the Virginia Good Roads Association, which will be held at Murphys Hotel Richmond, January 18, 19 and 20. In view of the fact that the General Assembly will be in session at that time and highway legislation will be the most important subject of State-wide interest before the Legislature, the annual convention of the good roads body is expected to draw the largest attendance of any good roads gathering held in the State. Differences of opinion as to how the same objectives of connected state highways desired by all may be speedily reached promises to make the 3 days' session of the convention unusually interesting. Speakers of National and State-wide prominence have been secured to lead the discussions. A banquet will be given with the State officials and members of the General Assembly as honor guests on the night of Thursday January 19. General C. C. Vaughan Jr., of Franklin, a member of the State Senate from the thirteenth district, is president of the Association and D. B. Ryland of Lynchburg, secretary-treasurer. The Virginia Good Roads Association is probably the largest organization of its kind in the South with a membership in excess of 8,000. While the Association has been active in state road affairs for the past five years, its most aggressive work was done in connection with the passage of the amendment to the Constitution permitting the State to issue bonds for road construction. This was ratified by a majority of 63,000 in the general election of November 1920.

The program committee of which D. B. Ryland of Lynchburg is the chairman has arranged for several speakers of State and nation-wide importance. Among the number will be the Hon. C. H. Huston of Waskington, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Commerce, Col. Thos. B. Mc Adams, Richmond, president of the American Bankers' Association, Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, Williamsburg, president of the College of William and Mary, Col. T. L. Kirkpatrick, Raleigh, N. C., Dr. S. M. Johnson, director general of the Lee Highway Association and others.

The program committee has been careful to provide for ample time for the discussion by members of the Association of the problem facing the General Assembly with reference to the highway program, so that set speeches would not crowd out this discussion. Thursday morning, January 19th, has been set aside for the major portion of this discussion. It will be led by a short address by Chairman Wade Massie of the State Highway Commission followed by a Coleman after which the meeting report of Commissioner George P. will be thrown open for discussion. The discussion of financing highway construction will be led by an address by Col. Thos. B. McAdams of Richmond who will open the afternoon session. Col. McAdams has made an exhaustive study of this phase of the highway question. As Thursday is the anniversary of the birth of Robert E. Lee, the remainder of the afternoon session will be devoted to a memorial to Gen. Lee, Mr. C. H. Huston, of Washington, president of Lee Highway Association will preside. The Lee man of National prominence in high-memorial address will be made by a way activities.

In the evening at the Grays' Armory the members of the General Assembly and State officials will be the guests of the Virginia Good Roads Association at the annual banquet of the Association, with Oliver J. Sands, Richmond, as toastmaster. A pleasing program is being arranged.

The program for the other two days promises to be equally interesting with discussions led by speakers who have given careful thought to the subjects assigned them. The report of will no doubt bring forth the most interesting discussion of the meeting.

The Pessimist

The Pessimist says:

This old terrestial whirligig is growing worse and worse; that Satan holds it in his cluch with sin's seductive curse. He says that this old "Ship of State" is "going to the dogs;" that she will founder on the rocks, midst foreign mists and fogs; that "Filthy Lucre's" heavy hand is throttling legislation; and combinations, blocs and feuds are ruining the nation. In proof of these bold predicates he pulls a "yellow sheet" with double head lines citing crimes committed on the street. He tells you of the bootleg gang, of bandits brave and bold, who loot a bank in broad daylight and take away the gold. There's nothing else a-going on, according to his tale, but murder, theft and rank rapine—just one mad rush for "kale." The wholesale man he now affirms, is one almighty skinner, and he who runs the retail shop is but a lesser sinner. He vows the whole darned shooting mstch, from financier to waiter, will hold you up for fifty cents, and to them you must cater. There's nothing good in church or state, according to his blather, he's smeared all over from head to foot with pessimistic lather.

I'd rather be a rattle snake or big blue-bottle fly than be infected with the germs that pesticate this guy. He needs to take a tramp abroad, discard this nauseous "fudge" and spend more time with jovial "Puck," "Old Whitcomb" and the "Judge."

A young man was wandering up and down the platform of the railway station intent on finding an empty carriage in the train. But in vain. Assuming an official air, he stalked up to the last carriage, and cried in a stentorian voice: "All change here; this car isn't going." There were exclamations low but deep from the occupants of the crowded car; but they hurried out and packed themselves away in other parts of the train. The smile on the face of the young man was childlike as he settled himself comfortably. "Ah,' he mumured, "It's a grand thing for me that I was born clever! I wish they would hurry up and start." By and by the station agent appeared at the door and said: "I suppose you're the smart young man who said this car wasn't going?" "Yes' said the clever one, and he smiled. "Well," said the stationmaster with a grin, "it isn't." The porter heard what you said, and so he uncoupled it." He thought you were a director.—The Argonaut (San Francisco.)

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE

MONDAY JAN. 3, 1813

DESPATCHES were received in Washington, on Thursday evening last from England. They were brought by a Castel which left Falmouth about the middle of November and arriv- morning last. We understand that the Castel brought one letter PACKAGE endorsed "Castlereigh," and was directed to the Secretary of State. The Commander of the Castel states (and we understand his statement is corroborated by London papers on board his vessel) that a tremendous battle which lasted three days, has been fought between Bonaparte and the Allies, in which the former was entirely defeated, with the loss of EIGHTY THOUSAND MEN!—A handbill was also received by a member of Congreses yesterday morning from the South, stating the arrival at Pensacola of a large Brittish squadron, which threatened the subjugation of the territory of the United States in that quarter. The information is said to derived from a communication from an officer in the U. S. Army in that quarter addressed to Gov. Claiborne. A short time will probably furnish us with all the particulars in relation to those important and interesting subjects.

BALANCED FOOD FOR FAMILIES

ESTIMATE FOOD SUPPLY WEEK LY AND INSURE A BALANCED DIET

Housekeepers often feel the need of some simple plan by which the foods usd in their families can be compared in kind and in amount with those really needed. This calls for a standard or model that may be used as a guide in the selection of foods for any family at any season of the year and under any market conditions.

The United States Department of Agriculture has just issued a new Farmer's Buletin, No. 1228, prepared by Caroline L. Hunt. The subject of the bulletin is, "A Week's Food for an Average Family." It shows how all food materials are classed under five heads or groups, and how all foods, with the exception of the milk for young children, may be replaced by some other food or foods within the same group. The text gives suggestions for such substitutions, and a method for comparing the cost of similar foods. It shows also how to adapt the allowances given in the sample food supply so as to meet the needs of families larger or smaller than the average. The bulletin contains many illustrations, useful tables and menus. It may be obtained upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture.

An important point emphasized in the bulletin is that a balanced food supply in the course of a week insures a balanced diet, whether or not the balance is carried out in each separate meal. The five food groups have been more generally understood of late years. Many housekeepers hav felt, however, that it was necessary to serve at least one food from each group at every meal, in order to supply a proper balance. If the week ly food supply is satisfactorily distrib uted the exact make up of the separate meals is not important. A breakfast of toast and coffee (for an adult) is entirely acceptable if foods from other groups are used later in the day.

As a rule the diet will be sufficiently bulky and flavorful and will furnish the right proportions of starch, fat, and sugar if the vegetables and fruits furnish about 20 per cent of the fuel; the milk, meat, eggs, and similar protein-rich foods, 20 per cent; the cereal foods, including bread, 30 per cent; sweets, 10 per cent; fats and fat foods, 20 per cent. A diet made up on those proportions will also furnish satisfactory kinds and amounts of protein, mineral substance, and vitamines. Tables of sample supplies are given in the bulletin, also a week's menus made from these supplies.

One feature of the bulletin which many housekeepers will welcome is a table of common foods in which the number of hundred-calorie portions in an ordinary unit of weight is clearly shown for foods in each group. Thus, ordinary cheese provides 19 hundred calorie portions per pound, while average beef provides 10 hundred calorie portions per pound When cheese sells for 38 cents a pound it costs 2 cents per hundred calorie portion, and beef of average composition would have to sell for 20 cents a pound to be equally cheap as a source of energy.

The mythical "average" family is supposed to consist of a father and mother, both doing moderately active muscular work, and three children whose ages total from 20 to 24 years. Four "average" adults is considered an equivalent. The new bulletin shows how to adapt "average" food requirements to any family by means of a table giving the number of hundred calorie portions needed by different individuals in a day or a week. It is interesting to note in this connection that an active boy over 12 may require as much or even more energy food than a grown man.

With the knowledge given of the amount of food from each group needed for the ideal or average family, and a correct estimate of the ratio of one's own family to the average in calorie requirements, it is easy to calculate the correct purchases for a week's supply.

A household food account book is suggested and described with the thought tha such an account will help in reducing the expenditures for food by indicating the groups in which cheaper materials could be substituted wihout detriment.

BOOTS WORN 30 YEARS WITH ORIGINAL SOLES

Altoona, Jan. 3.— John Durner, eighty-two years old, a retired farmer living near Martinsburg, has worn the same pair of boots in winter for more than thirty years. They never have been halfsoled.

The boots were made for the Rev. Dr. F. A. Rupley a Reformed minister, by Daniel Ott, a Martinsburg bootmaker, but were too tight for him and were sold to Durner, who wore them when engaged in work about the farm.

LONGER SKIRTS ARE IMPORTANT

French Writer Tells Parisian Grande Dame What Her Act Really Means

Paris Dec. 31.—The influence of French fashions upon the world in general and America in particular, is treated in a serio-comic vein by a writer in Figaro, who, addressing the French woman, says:

"Madame:

"When announcing to your husband that from henceforth you are going to wear longer skirts, you were probably thinking of the length of material needed and not of the importance of the act you were accomplishing. You did not perhaps realize the consequences, not only to the world of fashion, but to the world generally. Or if you did realize them you had the modesty not to speak of them, thus adding to your generous initiative, a quiet discretion which shows true merit. You will pretend that in allowing a few extra inches you only thought of modifying your 'line' and of harmonizing your esthetics unless perhaps you were simply obeying a general order. With all due deference to you, Madame, we are going to reveal the international and social importance of your decison.

"You realize, of course, that you being a Parisian, wearing a longer skirt means that thousands and thousands of women all over the globe will also be wearing longer skirts, for they are all eager to follow your example, estimating that there is no better model to copy. In virtue of this none of your gestures are indifferent. Whether they copy you two days or ten years later it is only a question of distance. If the ladies of distant fashionable worlds still rig themselves up in bustles, it is only because they have not finished trying to resemble your grand-motners.

"But on the other side of the Atlantic a huge country, which is supposed to get ahead of progress, does not wait for the post to initiate her into the change of fashion in your country. She goes as far as to have the details telegraphed to her. Thus your last gown has scarcely been ordered when the ladies of American society already know all the secrets connected with it. They heard of the lengthening of your skirts, and theirs have grown longer in consequence. And it is in this way that the effects of your salutary influence are felt. American dressmakers, taking statistics of their professional impressions say that owing to the lengthening of the skirts the business returns in the textile industry will have increased by $60,000,000. They estimate the supplementary manufacture necessitated by this additional amount of stuff at 20,000,000 metrese. The statistics and with information which is particularly valuable at a time when there is so much unemployment; a contingent of 20,000 men will be employed for the sole reason, Madame, that you have been kind enough to wear your skirts longer!

"America often proclaims the economic debt that she owes to French fashions. It is only right to attribute to you, Madame, the merit of the idea which will benefit the textile industry of the United States. It is you who have inspired this commercial recrudescence and you will be feted because of it until one day, being tired of wearing long skirts, you resolve inconsistent Madame, to shorten them again, and at the same time to cause American salaries to fall once more."

The railways of the United States use about 90,000,000 ties a year for renewals and new construction. This is equivalent to 300,000,000 cubic feet of timber.

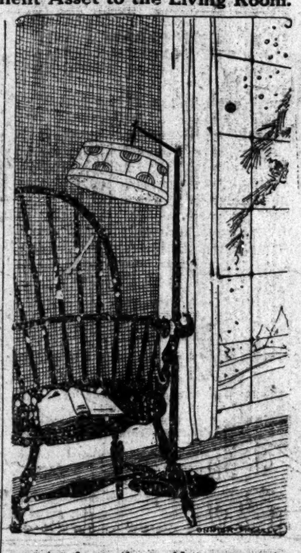
An Adjustable Lamp an Excellent Asset to the Living Room.



In my last article we spoke of a boudoir doll lamp, and I promised to tell you to-day of some lamps better suited to the living room. The artist has given us a sketch of an adjustable reading lamp. When it is possible to use these individual lamps throughout the room great satisfaction is the result. The word adjustable conveys the secret of their convenience. They are primarily for individual use, to be adjusted to give the best possible light for one reader.

If several such lamps may be used in the room the effect is most charming. Each person using one is made comfortable and the room itself is softly lighted, restful and attractive.

When individual lamps do not figure in your plans for your room a table lamp is a good choice. As it must do duty for several persons at the same time there is not need for it to be adjustable. (There might be an argument or two if it were!) The table on which it stands should be the height to let the lamp cast its rays down on the book of a person sitting at the table.

A splendid location for such a table and lamp is drawn up to the back of a davenport. Two persons may read by it when sitting on the davenport and still three sides of the table are left free for others.

If a davenport and table group does not appeal to you a long table may be placed at right angles to the wall (the short end against the wall), and with a center lamp three sides may again be utilized for readers.

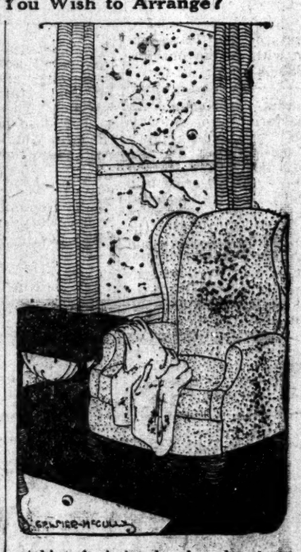
Is It a Sewing Corner You Wish to Arrange?



In my last article I talked of grouping furniture for visiting purposes, but the real housekeeper will, I am sure, be equally as interested in a group made for the sewing hour. All of us have experienced at some time the inconvenience of not having a comfortable sewing place and when we have experienced it we always determine that we will guard against such a condition in our own homes.

Therefore, again should the woman visualize the occasion when such a grouping will be in use when she is placing the furniture in her room. The artist has shown an easy chair drawn up before the fireplace, with a sewing table conveniently near at hand. The room pictured is a rather small bedroom, but with reason to be pleased with itself because it boasts an open fireplace. The size of the room prevented just the placing of the furniture that the occupant wished. For instance, we all know that for reading or sewing the light should fall over the left shoulder. In the sketch, however, you will see that the window is to the right of the chair. But as the woman said: "Could any one resist sitting in front of crackling flames the while the stockings are being darned?" She isn't particularly domestic, this woman, but she declares that under such circumstances even patching junior's play breeches loses its habitual dullness.

By DOROTHY ETHEL WALSH.

Correct Grouping of Furniture Important Factor in Decorating.

To understand the needs of certain articles of furniture is necessary to the woman who would have her home artistically furnished. For instance, the most attractive chair, table and couch may be purchased for the living room, but if it is placed unwisely in the room the care given to its selection has been negatived.

To illustrate, the living room is used primarily for visiting, and if this fact is ignored when arranging the furniture an uncomfortable room is certain to be the result. If the davenport is placed against one wall and the easy chair in a corner isolated from it it stands to reason that those sitting on the davenport cannot well visit with the occupant of the easy chair. Lack of ease in the room ensues. Either the chair must be carried near to the davenport or talking across the room takes place.

How much better when the furniture is arranged in "chatty" groups. Let the one arranging it visualize occasions when several of the pieces will be used simultaneously. That will simplify the problem. It is really most simple.

One thing should be held in mind and that is that when the room boasts a fireplace it should be made the centre of interest. The artist in to-day's sketch has given us a hint as to how this may be done.

Sheriff Released on Bond in Holdup Case

Hillsboro, Ill., Jan. 3.—Sheriff John Wilson, of Bond county, charged with complicity in the $31,000 robbery of the State Bank of Panama, on December 12, was at liberty yesterday under $10,000 bonds. The Sheriff, who was arrested several days ago and released, was rearrested on a new warrant.

Besides the sheriff, five others are in custody for the robbery. Johnson Mayfield and T. L. Durling, both of Greenville, are in jail here along with three men arrested several days ago in East St. Louis. More arrests are expected.

Durling is said to be the owner of the car in which the robbers made their escape on the day of the holdup.

TRINKLE SPEAKS TO KIWANIS CLUB

In his recent address before the Governors' day banquet of the Bristol Kiwanis Club E. Lee Trinkle Governor-elect of Virginia who on February 1 will succeed Governor Westmoreland Davis paid a pretty tribute to the women dedicating his remarks to the wives and sweethearts of Kiwanians. Governor-elect Trinkle's address follows in full:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, Kiwanians, Wives and Guests of Kiwanians:

"I must say that I feel a fine satisfaction in being here this Kiwanian evening. It is not only a satisfaction, it is indeed an honor. What more one could want would be difficult to imagine. Food for a Queen's taste. Amusement and music, and best of all, the Kiwanian hosts, their wives and guests. In other words, Lord Byron's essentials of any banquet, 'fair women fair; and the women make the men brave as a faint heart never wins.

"This event, coming in the midst of the holiday season, naturally surges with color. It is a fitting climax to the week of happiness; which stands out from the rest of the year in the most exquisite cameo-effect. The Twenty-fifth of December has a delightful way of raching out its tendril fingers and embossing a week or more with the evergreens of joy. And by no possible means could we regert our presence here. In short and simple words, we are glad we came.

Reference To Poe.

"The occasion keeps me thinking of happiness; and I am therefore almost constrained to talk to you of the principles of pleasure. The joy of this event keeps bringing to my mind a short story by Edgar Allen Poe, in which the author analyses the pleasures of man and lays down the elementary principles of bliss. Kiwanis I suppose, is comparatively a news or ganization; but I think Poe must have attended a Kiwanian banquet; gone home to Mrs. Clemm and Virginia, and then writen his story, with a first-hand knowledge of happiness fresh in his mind.

The presence of the ladies here tonight certainly inspires me to dwell on the first of Mr. Poe's principles of bliss. I see them blush even before I have the time to say that it is "Love of Woman." And good Kiwanians agree that without the inspiration of the women banquets and conquests would alike be failures.

This event has been named the conference of Governors. The newspapers have constantly referred to it by that itle. They have talked about Hon. Alfred Taylor, present Governor of Tennessee; Hon. Westmoreland Davis, present Governor of Virginia, and Hon. John I. Cox, former Governor of Tenneessee. It's been Governor This and Governor That, and Governor and Governor. But the thing I want to emphasize is that the women, love of whom has always been recognized as the first essential principle of bliss are the real governors of both Virginia and Tennessee.

Wherever Kiwanians and Governors are the palm goes to the ladies. Every woman everywhere is the governor of somebody. The women are the governors of Governors. Surely it is the fair women—fair of face and fair of soul—who make the men brave when the stress and strain come. And the women thank God are naturally brave. Purposely nature showed her cunning when she gave the women both beauty and courage. Never a boy grew to manhood but in reverence he would review the splendour of his young romance ,and thinking of his true love's eyes, with the poet, say:

"Love them or spurn them as thy mood may please
Many gifts hast thou; here are mine;
Songs of the sunlit years, from seas,
Whose tides beat to no feet but thine."

Ladies' Viewpoint.

"But I judge from Poe's phrasing—"Love of Woman"— that he thought it a waste of time to speak of happiness for her. Perhaps he was so engrossed from his own viewpoint, he left the ladies' viewpoint to them alone. Doubtless he knew that love of man is no open sesame to bliss for the fair er ones.

But when he said that the next principle of bliss was 'freedom from ambition,' he knew that indeed a woman's happiness was an encompassing love of things worth while, and not a selfish desire for pomp and power and the gilded trappings of show. Freedom from ambition, so essential to happiness in man, is a characteristic that has ever been exemplified by woman in that she has held herself from ambitions born of comparisons and jealousies, forevere hungry for preferments and gnawing at the vitals of men, corrupting their motives, cankering the soul, and giving to the world the 'scheme of things that are' for the 'scheme of things that should be.' While unhappy men have grasped and grappled for the baubles, the women have continued their faithful pursuits with purpose and consecration on their banners, which men would have soiled with ambition.

When addressing Kiwanians, whose motto is service, and whose wives are part and parcel of the womanhood I have just referred to, and inadequately praised, I am glad to note that the penetrating vision of the author, himself, substituted purpose, 'the continuous pursuit of some object,' on the throne of ousted ambition; faith in the goodness and kindness of things, and intangible and inherent urge to do things for the sake of the things themselves; for the joy of a tawdry brilliancy on the builders and makers themselves.

On Right Trail.

"'Kiwanis' itself meaning 'we serve' or something similar to that, I believe that the Kiwanians are on the right trail. The boys of the eland being the object of their pursuit—as of the girls. Given a purpose, freedom from estranging ambition, health in the open spaces and forever 'remembering her,' what can't the Kiwanians do?

"That is it, Kiwanians, 'remember her.' To pay a just tribute to Southern womanhood is always a pleasure. We all attempt it; but we realize that no human tongue—no 'prince of the realm of rhyme'—can sing it sweet enough to make it just. But it has nevertheless, been well said, that it is a woman's right to be the queen of her husband's heart; the arbiter of his destiny; the unquestioned sovereign of the realm of the home; the inspiration of genius; the patroness of noble effort; the conservator of purity; the exponent of faith—the ornament, charm, blessing and consolation of the world."

SELECTIONS FOR CAST OF PASSION PLAY MADE

Anton Lang to Portray Leading Character for Third Time at Oberammergau.

Oberammergau, Jan. 3.—The long list of characters for the Passion play which will be produced here a number of times in 1922, has been selected, and rehearsals have begun. The chief roles will be played again by veterans, some of whom have participated in the presentations for forty years.

Anton Lang will portray the character of Christ for the third time. Anton Lechner will be prolonguist for the second time. Other characters will be: Peter, Andreas Lang; John, Melchoir Breitsamter; Judas, Guido Mayr; Calaphas, Hugo Rutz; King Herold, Gregor Breitsamter; Annas, Sebastian Lang; Pilate, Hans Mayr; Mary, Martha Seitz; Magdalene, Paula Rendl

One of the last selections was Guido Diemer for choir leader. There has not been a performance of the play for eighty years that a Diemer was not leader of the choir or one of the important singers in it. Guido Diemer took part in the war, first as an artillerist and later as an aviator. In 1919 he dedicated his life to the study of singing, and shortly afterward appeared with pronounced success in various church concerts.

The Passion play committee decided not to violate Oberammergau tradition by permitting pictures to be taken of the play. American moving picture representatives approached the committee with offers of millions of marks, but their proposals were promptly rejected.

It is Mercury, Quicksilver, Shocks Liver and Attacks Your Bones

Calomel salivation is horrible. It swells the tongue, loosens the teeth and starts rheumatism. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Baron Rosen Dies of Injuries

Former Russian Ambassador Hurt in Auto Accident Several Days Ago

New York, Jan. 2.—Baron Rosen, former Russian ambassador to the United States, who recently was knocked down by a taxicab in this city, died yesterday in his suite at the hotel Netherland. With him at the end was his wife who hastened to his bedside from Paris on receiving word of the accident.

Baron Rosen had been confined to his hotel since December 14, the date of the accident, with a fractured leg and other injuries. Resultant complications, it is believed, brought on his fatal illness.

Funeral services will be conducted for the public at the Russian Catholic church of St. Nicholas Tuesday morning. In keeping with the Russian custom private services will be held in the same church Monday evening.

John—"Do you really believe that absence makes the heart grow fonder?"

Louise—"Well, you might try it for a month or two."—The American Legion Weekly.

"Have you offered Tom any encouragement?"

Edith—"Oh yes. When he asked me what my favorite flower was. I said: 'Brown's for pastry and Smith's for bread."—Boston Transcript.

"FAIR AND COLDER" BUT HEALTHY

"Come on in," said Miss Eda Schnall to the photographer but he stayed out. We don't blame him for not following her advice, for the water is quite chilly these mornings. Miss Schnall is a snowbird, that is she just delights in taking a dip in the ocean or running around the snow-covered sands at Brighton Beach. She says that it makes one healthy, and we replied, "Who wants to be healthy?"

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

WITH THE WISHING FAIRY

by CORINNE

Mr. and Mrs. Tree-Creeper.

PIMZIE and Kinkajou had wandered from their End-of-the-Earth home to the world where Humans live. They had been playing hide-and-go-seek and leap-frog with a big Frog and had played so hard and so long that the two Brownies were quite exhausted and threw themselves down on the moss to rest. Their Frog friend perched on a nearby stone and blinked his eyes contentedly. Just then a Moth was silly enough to fly too near him, when, quick as a flash, his long glue tongue shot out and the poor Moth disappeared down his throat.

"Goodness!" Pimzie said to him with a grin. "That's the kind of hide-and-go-seek that you enjoy more than the Moth does!" And they all waited expectantly for more Moths to fly by, but were disappointed; so the Frog swelled out his neck, croaked a few times, blinked and went to sleep. The Brownies were sorry, for he had been very entertaining.

Suddenly they noticed a small dark Bird circling around and around up a tree. It carefully examined every inch of the trunk, then flew down to the base of another tree and slowly circled up to the top and then it flew to another tree and another. The Brownies were fascinated.

"What do you suppose it is looking for?" said Kinkajou.

"The easiest way to find out," Pimzie said, "would be to ask it. Hey, there!" he yelled so loudly to the Bird that it almost fell off its tree.

"What's the matter?" it asked in astonishment. "Why scare a fellow to death?"

"I'm sorry we frightened you," said Kinkajou gently, "but we want to know what you're looking for, and why you are going around and around all these trees."

"Well, you are stupid!" exclaimed the Bird in an irritated way. "What do you think I'm looking for? Goldfish?"

The Brownies felt exceedingly uncomfortable, and Pimzie especially hated being made fun of; but the Bird burst out laughing and flew toward them.

"I'm looking for Worms, Bugs and delicious little things like that," it said.

"I'm called a Tree Creeper," the Bird continued, "because, as you saw, I creep around from the bottom to the tip top of trees in search of food. My nest is over in that large Oak," and he pointed with his long curved bill. "It's in a hole that was abandoned by a Woodpecker and is really very comfy. Mrs. Creeper has laid some lovely eggs. Would you like to see them?"

Of course the two Brownies were delighted to, and said so. They all three hurried over to the Oak, which Kinkajou and Pimzie had a terribly hard time climbing, but the Bird was of great assistance, and what with a lot of pushing and boosting they finally reached the Creeper's home, which was a deep hole under a dead branch. They looked in, and there sat little Mrs. Creeper. Her beady black eyes glittered in the gloom of the hole, but she smiled a dear little bird smile and showed them her eggs. There were seven and they were cream color with such beautiful purple dots that there was small wonder Mr. Creeper had spoken so proudly of them.

Just as they were climbing down the Oak several Nuthatches and Woodpeckers flew near, and Mr. Creeper explained that they had come to call, for it seems that these three kinds of Birds are great friends and travel much together.

HOOTCH HOUNDS BEWARE!

Dr. Amy Kankonen, the twenty-three-year-old Mayor of Fairport, Ohio, issues a warning to all boot leggers in her immediate vicinity to beware. In her own laboratories she is conducting chemical analyses of all contraband home brew. She is perhaps the youngest as well as the only woman Mayor in the United States. She was elected on a "dry ticket" and means to maintain a dry condition in the city of which she is Chief Executive. The photo shows the fair Mayor at work testing home brew in her own laboratories.

Will Invade Eveless Eden

Greenville, S. C., Jan. 3.—Donalds, which has gained nation-wide reputation as being a town without a single marriageable woman, due to an epidemic of weddings last summer, is to be invaded by Chicago girls, who announce that they expect to visit the "Eveless Eden" in search of swains.

The postmaster here received a letter from a Chicagoian who styled herself as "young pretty and a good cook, with money," saying that she and others were planning a motor trip South and that they wanted the postmaster to investigate the situation at Donalds and give confidential report on the boys who, in the absence of girls to go to see, have almost crowded the stove out of the village drug store.

Secret Service Agent Who Trailed Wall Street Bomb Suspect

According to reports from Warsaw Poland, the police there have arrested a man by the name of Wolfe Lindenfeld, alias William Linde, as a suspect in connection with the Wall Street bomb explosion of September 16, 1920. The police say they mad the arrest at the request of the American Department of Justice and claim the man confessed to his part in the crime. The photo shows Dr. Paul Altendorf, who is mentioned in the dispatches as one of the United States Secret Service operatives who traced Lindenfeld to Warsaw and caused his arrest. Dr. Altendorf is here shown in the uniform of Colonel in the Mexican Army. He held that rank while unearthing German plots against the United States in Mexico during the war.

Every known precious stone has been found in the United States.

It is estimated that the number of drug stores in the United States is three times as large as is necessary.

The national debt per person in the United States is $227; in Great Britain, $816.60.

Two Youths Go Swimming

The boys jumped from the bridge on the West Virginia side, near the ice-incrusted bank and were in the water about 60 feet. Previous to taking the in their bathing suits. The plunge into the deep water was from a height of about 60 feet Previous t otaking the splash they rowed about on the river in a canoe. After the swim they were so benumbed that they had to have the assistance of colored boys to button their clothing and lace their shoes. A large crowd was on the bridge to witness the feat.

FLAG SAVES "DRY" AGENT

Hotel Guests Resent Attempt to Seize Drinks

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 3.—A Federal prohibition agent, sorely beset by hotel guests, unaware of his identity, was saved from personal injury when the orchestra of the Highland Hotel played "The Star-Spangled Banner" Saturday night and the hotel steward, R. G. Jahrling, switched on an illuminated flag.

Two raiding officers, it was learned yesterday, entered the hotel and while one was producing credentials the other entered dining room and began to seize drinks on the table. The latter's action was resented by guests and a rough-and-tumble fight was in progress when the steward entered and ordered the national anthem played at the same time switching the lights on the flag. The action brought the guests to their feet and ended the fight.

The capita tied up in automobiling in the United States is estimated as over $6,000,000,000.

"Say, Red," said Dead Shot Bill to a bartender in one of the thirteen leading speak-easies of Burnt Powder, Arizona, "din't Shifty Pete tell you that he thought I had a hasty temper?"

"Why, no," replied Red, "not that I can remember."

"Too bad," said Bill, giving one of his holsters a hitch. "Then I've killed an innocent man."—The American Legion Weekly.
